

Open position

The Chair of Applied Microeconomics (Dr. Stefanie Brilon) is looking for a Student Research Assistant for 20 hours per month, starting as soon as possible.

Your tasks:

- Support in the preparation of English-language courses on topics in applied micro and environmental economics
- Active support of research projects (literature reports, support in planning and conducting experiments)
- Administrative and organizational support

What you bring:

- Committed, independent and responsible way of working
- Good to very good academic performance
- Good knowledge of English
- ideally previous experience using LaTeX software

What the position offers:

- Flexible work location and flexible working hours
- Insights into research and teaching, including informal mentoring

Interested? Then send your application (cover letter, CV and current transcript) by email to Stefanie Brilon (sbrilon@uni-mainz.de).